

The enchanting narrator Georgi Bardarov is waiting for the Burgas readers in the new library tomorrow

Wednesday, 7 April 2021

Georgi Bardarov's latest book has been ranked at the top of the readers' charts since its publication at the end of December. Four years after the premiere of one of the most discussed Bulgarian novels in the last decade, "I still count the days", the hit writer will present his second novel "Absolvo te" tomorrow in Burgas. He will be a special guest author in the new library. Connoisseurs of valuable literature will be able to obtain the novel and a personal autograph from the author of the official premiere tomorrow, April 8, at 6.30 pm, 2nd floor. All safety measures will be observed on the spot. "Absolvo te" is the title of Georgi Bardarov's new book. Its main theme is forgiveness. The plot intertwines two stories related to the Holocaust and the Arab-Israeli conflict. The topic delves into the human soul, and this is no accident for those who know him precisely as a specialist in ethnoreligious conflicts.
