The Pandir's plastic has been reinforced and he will continue to smile under a moustache at the beginning of the bridge

Thursday, 4 February 2021

Today the Pandir's plastic has been reinforced at the beginning of the bridge in Burgas. This happened on the spot, there was no need for it to be moved. The issue was a loose bolt that was supposed to keep the plastic attached to the ground, and because of that a small elevation at the base had occurred. Today the anchor bolts have been replaced with longer ones and the plastic has yet again "stepped" firmly on its feet.
